BEEN REMOVED TO CHIP-

DEPUTIES GUARD WINTER

Governor Davidson Will Await Action
of the Local Authorities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Winter, Wis., Oct. 3.—Latest reports today from the cabin of John Dietz, the Cameron dam defender, are that Dietz will undoubtedly come to Winter today, defy the thirty-eight deputy sheriffs under orders from Sheriff Madden to "get him" and attempt to rescue his daughter, Myra, aged 21, who was at the Winter hotel, dangerously injured as a result of being shot by Madden's men Saturday. Dietz this morning told the newspaper men who visited the Dietz home to tell them he was coming in today.

At noon Myra Dietz was taken to the Chippewa Falls hospital. Her wounds are so serious it is believed she will die.

Standing Guard.
A score of deputy sheriffs armed with rifles stood about the train watching for John Dietz who they feared would make good his threat to prevent officers from taking his daughter away.

Another Report.
Candary, Wis., Oct. 3.—Twenty able-bodied men in Winter and the surrounding country have been sworn in as deputy sheriffs and Winter and all the approaching roads are guarded by men armed with rifles, fearing an attack from John Dietz for the shooting of his children Saturday by deputy sheriffs.

Defies Authorities.
Rice Lake, Oct. 3.—Myra Dietz, the wounded daughter of John Dietz, passed through this city this afternoon under a guard of five deputies. They were taking their prisoner to the jail at Hayward, in direct defiance of the orders of District Attorney Davis who had demanded the removal of the girl to the hospital at Eau Claire.

Explains Shooting.
Sheriff Madden in explaining the shooting of the Dietz children Saturday said that when he and his deputies met the Dietz children in a wagon they called upon them to throw up their hands. The children reached for their guns and the officers opened fire. Madden admits he forbade the reporters to see Dietz and that he stopped his mail.

Ready to Fight.
It is thought Sheriff Madden may start the Dietz struggle on the Thompson river within a few days. Dietz and his wife and four children are still in charge of the cabin at Cameron Dam and cannot be taken by storming the cabin without a heavy loss of life.

Watches Local Authorities.
Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—Gov. Davidson today refused to discuss the Dietz case, holding that the authorities on the ground are the ones to deal with the trouble.

Appley's Opinion.
That Sheriff Madden and his posse were thoroughly justified in shooting the Dietz children is the opinion expressed today by Deputy State Marshal Wm. H. Appley, who three years ago attempted to serve legal papers on Dietz at Cameron Dam.

Dietz Not Shot.
It is reported here, he says, that Dietz himself could not have been shot. The marshal takes the ground that Dietz is a dangerous outlaw to get and guerrilla methods are necessary.

Landing Aid.
"They were landing aid to their father in his attempts to evade arrest and were themselves open to attack. How were they to be taken if not by the stern measures the posse took? Most people living Dietz and his family are refined, peaceable people, but they are not in a situation to judge correctly on that point.

"I have seen them at close range and know how disgustingly coarse they are in their living. Reporters came to their house and got their skin of the case and naturally they got out of them the favorable side; the rest is unknown to the public.

Tell Many Tales.
"The Dietz family, both John and his wife, have told the most flamboyant unjust tales of the treatment of officers. I have suffered from their false statements which have been spread broadcast and people everywhere who have read an account of it, think my course was dishonorable and unjust. Nothing was farther from the truth.

"The Dietz family, from the head of the family down to the youngest child are trained in the art of misrepresentation. From the way they have broken laws and opened their fare against the government to other course was reasonable than that taken by Sheriff Madden. The next thing they should get Dietz, dead or alive. He is better out of the way."

Los Angeles Times Structure to Be Rebuilt and Fight Against Foes
of Open Shop Continued.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3.—Gen. Otis, owner of the Los Angeles Times, in the alleged blowing up of which Saturday night he will once rebuild the Times and fight the enemies of industrial freedom to the limit. The coroner's inquest over the dead starts tomorrow. The reward for the apprehension of the dynamiters today reached $18,000.

Planned down by tons of twisted steel girders, a number of the bodies were reported found early today by workmen engaged in removing the debris of the wrecked building, and it is impossible to recover the bodies until the heavy material is lifted away.

The dynamite used in the attempt to blow up the homes of the Times officials has been identified as that purchased from the Giant Powder company by three men at Oakland on Sept. 15. The police think the dynamite was brought to Los Angeles by boat. The men are known and it is expected they will be arrested shortly.

It is now doubted if the bodies of any more victims will be recovered as it is believed they were consumed by the flames. According to detectives five men were seen loitering near the Zeeland house Friday afternoon. The police it is said have a fair description of these men. The police believe these five planted bombs at the Times office and the residences of Otis and Zeeland. Seventeen men are now in jail booked as dynamite suspects.

CRIME EXPERTS
AT WASHINGTON

NEARLY FIFTY NATIONS ARE RE-PRESENTED.

AT BIG PRISON CONGRESS

Subject and Application of Criminal Law and Penal Legislation Will Be Considered.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., October 3.—The greatest gathering of students of crime and of methods of treating criminals that the world has ever witnessed assembled in this city today at the opening of the eighth meeting of the International Prison Congress. The sessions are being held in the new National museum and will continue through the entire week. The attendance embraces several hundred of the world's most famous criminologists and prison experts, gathered from nearly fifty countries.

For the first time in her history China is participating in the international movement for prison reform. She has sent a delegation consisting of progressive young men who are taking a prominent part in the work of reshaping the system or jurisprudence of the empire and in the practical administration of the laws. Japan likewise is represented at the congress, as are also Australia and several of the countries of South and Central America. Virtually all of the nations of Europe, including Russia and Turkey, are well represented at the gathering.

The congress will consider the subject and application of criminal law, and methods of improving the condition of prisons. Its objects are purely humanitarian, and comprise the whole range of practical measures intended to benefit the erring individual, as well as protect society as a whole. Penal legislation will be the subject of much discussion and the advisability of the death penalty will also be considered. The effects of probation, the best methods of dealing with the tramp problem, the indeterminate sentence, the problem of the drunkard, the essential principles of a modern reformatory system, the improvement of the parole system, the best means of working prisoners in small prisons, the problem of the child criminal, and the procedure regarding penal sentences pronounced by courts of foreign lands when the prisoner is again in his own country are among the topics that will receive attention during the week.

The presiding officer is Professor Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago, included among the noted participants are Emilio Rabasa, president of the prison board of Mexico; Frederic O. A. Woxen, chief of prisons of Norway; Etienne Krouleff, chief of the prison administration of Russia; Victor Almquist, chief of the general prisoner administration of Sweden; Dr. Gustafson of Rome, who is secretary of the International Prison Congress; Dr. Don Fernando Cals, also, inspector general of prisons in Spain; Dr. Joseph Thiermoller of Austria; Adolph Prinz, general inspector of prisons of Bohemia; Sir Evelyn Hughes Brice, president of the English prison commission; Walter George Scott, president of the prison commission for Scotland; M. Schrammek, director of the French prison system; Dr. Rosenfeld, secretary of the International Criminological Association; Alexander Skouzes, former minister of foreign affairs of Greece; Takashi Sunagi, secretary of the prison bureau of Japan; Jules Ricki de Bally, chief of the prison system of Hungary, and Sadeddin Bey, judicial inspector of Turkey.

Although the United States government played a prominent part in the organization of the International Prison Congress and meetings have been held every five years since 1872, when the congress was first organized, this is the first meeting that has been held in this country.

TAKE FOURTH IN SERIES AT PARK

JANESVILLE WON GAME WITH BELOIT AT YOST'S YESTERDAY, 7 TO 1.

TEAMS NOW STAND EVEN

Each Nine Has Two Victories To Its Credit In Fall Series—Yesterday's Attendance Largest This Fall.

For the two victories in succession which Beloit had secured from them, Janesville retaliated yesterday afternoon at Yost's Park, defeating Beloit 7 to 1 and coming out even with Beloit in the "winter" series, by winning this contest. Llewellyn, star pitcher for the Janesville nine, was not so effective in yesterday's game as the Sunday before and was touched up more freely for hits. Lally, the Janesville twirler, a member of the St. Paul American association team, had slightly the best of it against his former team mate, having a better control.

Janesville scored three times in the first inning, once in the seventh, and three again in the eighth. Beloit's lonely tally was made in the fifth when Perling made a two-sacker and came home on a single by Solbra.

Fulton made a long run and sensational catch in the sixth, sparing a long fly driven out by Mills between center and right field.

Breen, who has played with Delavan and has travelled in fast company, took Freeman's place on the first sack in a very capable manner.

Warm weather and sunny skies evidently had something to do with the attendance yesterday, about fifteen hundred people, the larger portion from the Janesville side, witnessing the game. In spite of the awkwardness of the scene the spectators' viewpoint, Beloit's weakness in the first and eighth innings and the strengthening of the batting list of the Janesville nine were largely responsible for the scoring.

CHARGE IT TO ADVERTISING

Veteran Actor's Good Story of the Theatrical Manager and the Evangelist.

"I lunched in London with Charles Klein, the dramatist and author of 'The Third Degree' and 'The Lion and the Mouse,'" said a veteran actor in New York. "Klein was the hero of the London papers just then. He had gotten into a taxi cab one morning and said calmly to the chauffeur, 'Edinburgh.' It was a trip of a thousand miles—the taxi cab record. Naturally, afterward," the actor continued, "our conversation turned to advertising."

Klein told me an interesting case. While he was conversing with a theatrical manager in London one day an evangelist was shown in. 'My dear sir,' said the evangelist to the theatrical manager, 'I am taking notes and gathering material for a lecture on the evils of the stage. I hear that "The Blonde Widow" your present attraction, is decidedly—ahem—sensational. May I ask for a ticket of admission that I may gauge its immorality personally?' The theatrical manager beamed with delight. 'Why, certainly, sir, certainly,' he cried and turning to his secretary, he said: 'Rutherford, give this gentleman an order for a press-box, and charge it to advertising.'"

As to the Frank.

In a discussion of the franking privilege Senator Money, the leader of the majority, remarked: "The frank is a great privilege." He went on to expatiate, but what he said was lost in the remark of a gallery occupant, who got in with the statement that "the frank is to help to get men back to congress." When one observes the quantities of documents being sent out under frank from the national capital he is inclined to agree with the man who made that statement.—St. Louis Star.

REVOLT

Marjorie had decided that home was no longer endurable, so she was going to run away.

She walked slowly and pensively down the front steps. She glanced back now and then and occasionally kicked a step, making a sound loud enough to be heard by any mother who really loved her child. Such a mother, hearing the sound, would have come out and called her child back with tears. Then such a mother would have told her child that she might do anything she wished to do, even to wearing the new pink gingham frock with the strips of white embroidery whenever her soul craved such comfort. But no mother appeared.

Marjorie sat down on the bottom step and removed her right shoe. She thought maybe there was a pebble in that shoe. Of course, no sensible person would start on a long journey with a pebble in her shoe. It took some time for Marjorie to get her shoe adjusted. Then it occurred to her that she'd better see if there was a hole in her stocking. She would have to walk hundreds of miles, perhaps, before she found shelter.

She took off her shoe and examined both stockings carefully. There was no sign of a hole in either. As she replaced her left shoe she thought she heard the screen door open, but when she turned around to look there was no anxious motherly face peering out.

Marjorie rested her chin in her hands and mentally rehearsed her woes. Yes, there was no possible doubt that her mother had ceased to love her.

A big tear rolled down her cheek and splashed into her lap. Two more tears welled up and filled her eyes. Then for a moment Marjorie forgot her troubles and her interests in an old way—looking through tears made the trees across the street dance up and down, quite as if they were alive. It was the way things looked when you throw a stone into clear water and then looked down and watched the sand and pebbles twist about, though it really was the water and not the pebbles and sand that moved. Just the day before she had done this when she went to the lake with her mother.

And that unnatural parent had really loved her yesterday!

The tears came in real earnest this time. Marjorie wiped them away with the corner of her apron. Then she regarded that seemingly innocuous garment with distaste. Though the pink gingham had been the little rift within the lute, it was this miserable apron that had alienated the harmony for good and all. Now it was about to make her an outcast from a once happy home!

If she had been allowed to wear the pink gingham, as she had wanted to, then indeed she would have submitted to being swathed in the humiliating outer covering, but when at the close of a stormy interview she had not only been refused the precious boon of the pink gingham, but had been firmly buttoned into a gray monstrosity which she had always loathed, and further increased in a blue and white checked apron, her proud spirit would brook no more. She would no longer remain where such brutality—nay, worse, such execrable taste—was exhibited. The die was cast. She would run away!

As Marjorie reached this point in her meditations, she rose firmly to her feet. Then she faltered. The clock was just striking 12. Almost luncheon time! Perhaps it would be better not to go until properly fortified. Perhaps she would better wait until after a substantial luncheon.

Bobby, the fat little fox terrier, came bounding joyously around the corner of the house and hurled himself upon Marjorie like a joy-intoxicated catapult. She submitted to his moist caresses with a pensive pleasure. Poor little Bobby! He didn't know that he was looking his last upon her. There wouldn't be anybody to take him to the lake and throw sticks for him. Marjorie cried six big tears for poor little Bobby. Then she pushed him away.

After all, perhaps she'd better not wait until after luncheon. Perhaps it would be best for her and her mother not to meet again. Marjorie cried sympathetic tear or two for her mother.

And daddy! Marjorie sobbed outright when she thought of daddy. Daddy surely loved her. It took a very stern frown indeed from mother to silence his over-ready, pleading, "Oh, let her do it."

Marjorie walked toward the back of the house, Bobby leaping and leaping about her. As she crept past the dining-room, there was a tap on the window. Looking up, she met mother's smiling face.

"Come in, chicken," her mother called. Marjorie's heart gave a leap at the sound of the loving voice. "Hurry and wash your hands and face. Lunch is nearly ready and daddy just telephoned that he was coming home early to take us driving. And I've made a little turnover pie just big enough for you."

A turnover pie! And daddy was coming home early!

Marjorie dashed around to the kitchen door to the madd of Bobby's yelps and flung herself into the open arms waiting there for her.

Mother did love her after all! She did, she did!

PROSPERITY SURE IN COMING YEAR, SAYS TAFT

President Predicts Good Times Throughout Country From Big Crops in Next 12 Months.

New York, Oct. 3.—President William Taft in an address before the National League of Republican Clubs predicted great prosperity for this nation during the coming year. He told the party leaders that all records for harvests and a well directed prosperity would be broken in the next 12 months. And it was of the tangible variety, he said, the kind that springs from the soil and not from stocks and bonds.

President Taft summed up the accomplished reforms of the first 18 months of his administration. He had some pleasing things to say about the insurmountable, whom he spoke of only as "progressive Republicans." He also told in this connection his idea of the two specific evils that had afflicted the American people. He defined them as corrupt control of legislative bodies and illegal combinations in restraint of competition.

Here also President Taft's views on prosperity and his definition of the progressive Republicans.

"It gives me the greatest satisfaction to say that in spite of all the rumors of possible business stagnation, our basic prosperity is assured for the coming year in that the great volume of the crops now being harvested in value will exceed the products of our fields at any period in the past. Our corn will equal approximately three thousand millions of dollars, and the significance of this fact in its bearing on the business of next year can hardly be overestimated.

"A progressive Republican is one who recognizes existing and concrete evils and who is in favor of definite steps to eradicate them."

PIONEER IN PRISON REFORM.

Prof. Van der An Declares Netherlands Was First in Foreign Field.

Washington, Oct. 3.—That the tiny country of the Netherlands was a European pioneer in prison reform was the thesis of the public lecture by Professor Simon Van der An this afternoon before the International Prison Congress. Dr. Van der An, professor of criminal law at the University of Groningen, traced the rise of the prison system of the Netherlands out of and away from the atrocious tortures and abundant executions of the period succeeding the time of the Reformation. He said:

"The first beginnings of prison organization date from the last part of the sixteenth century. At that time, capital punishment stood at the head of the list and corporal punishment in second place. In 1589 the aldermen of Amsterdam, objecting to a sentence of death passed upon a youth of sixteen, resolved to erect a house where all vagabonds, maddened, rascals and such people could be confined and put to work for so long a time as the justice should deem fit. From this resolution arose the 'rasphouse' and the 'spinhouse.'"

Professor Van der An then rapidly sketched the organization of these houses, pointing out that many of the modern reform principles found expression in the Netherlands at this early date.

The federal government sanctioned the pow-wow, at which the spectacular features will be the sun and religious dances of the early days and a series of races with Indian riders on Indian ponies.

George Wesley, one of the famous Yakimas, is vice-president, and Lancaster Spencer, the wealthiest Indian in Washington, is secretary and manager.

I. C. STENOGRAPHER BOUGHT FOR Young Woman Is Wanted As Witness In Graft Scandal.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A little black-haired stenographer is being sought by Illinois Central railroad detectives as a witness in the $1,000,000 car repair graft scandal. In addition to having been J. M. While detectives refused to make public the name of the woman, it was said that her testimony would be important. An stenographer to J. M. Taylor, former head storekeeper of the Illinois Central, she handled much correspondence. It is believed that Baker also confided many of his secrets to her.

NOVEL AIR TOY

Few Turns of the Hand Enough to Send It Spinning Across Room

A most ingenious little toy that is right in line with the present craze for things aerial is that here depicted. It is so simple that anybody can make it and it will amuse the children for hours. Take a strip of thin, light metal—aluminum if you can get a piece of this, or cardboard, cut out of it a pair of elliptical wings, each about four or five inches long and connected by a thinner strip. Bend these wings over their centers till what was originally the top of one becomes the lower side, thus forming a pair of blades.

SALES IN STRAIGHT LINE.

Like the propeller of a boat or of an airplane for that matter. Then take a stick about eight inches long and from an eighth to a quarter of an inch thick and nail the wings to one end of it. This done, hold the device with the wings up and the stick between the palms of the hand. Give it a twist or two, with the last motion shooting it forth into the air and you will be surprised to see it sail straight forward for a distance of from twenty to thirty feet before it begins to descend on its side.

CLEVER LITTLE BOXER, JOHNNY FRAYNE.

New Orleans.—Johnny Frayne, the clever little San Francisco light-weight, has arrived here in company with his new manager, Charles G. White. Frayne has signed up to meet Harlem Tommy Murphy in a ten-round bout before Tommy Walsh's Crescent City club on the night of October 1. The little fellow hopes to show the fans that he can come back. He got off to a good start three weeks ago, when after a layoff of a year on account of sickness, he humbly beat Jimmy Pitten in a six-round tilt in Oakland. Frayne showed good form that night, winning all the way. His old-time cleverness was in evidence despite his long absence from the ring.

Since then Frayne has been working out every day and he is in good shape now. White, his new manager, was formerly with Billy Delaney and has had a lot of experience handling boxers of various weights and sizes. Frayne makes a good showing against Murphy he has been promised a match with Wolgast some time during November.

BOLT DESTROYS SECOND MONUMENT TO HENRY CLAY.

At left, monument destroyed by lightning in July, 1903. At right, new statue, unveiled last July, to take its place, which was last week partially destroyed by a second bolt of lightning.

Lexington, Ky.—A hoodoo seems to follow the attempt of Kentucky to show its respect to her great statesman, Henry Clay. At his tomb in Lexington cemetery there was erected in his honor a magnificent pedestal, surmounted by a statue of the great statesman. In July, 1903, this was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. For several years the question was agitated as to who should defray the expenses of a second monument. In the end it was decided that the state should defray part of the expense and a legislative appropriation of $12,000 was made. The unveiling took place last July. Last week, in a terrific storm, during which every the alarm box in the city was put out of commission, telephone and telegraph communication stopped and nearly five inches of rain fell, a second bolt of lightning struck the new monument, shattering one arm and otherwise so completely demolishing the statue that it will again have to be replaced.

CENTER OF WEST POINT REBELION.

Major General Barry, superintendent of the West Point academy, who has returned from Washington to give the situation his personal charge.

West Point, N. Y.—The open rebellion manifested by the first class men at the West Point Military Academy will require the most careful attention of the officers in charge. Major General Barry, superintendent of the academy, has returned from Washington to take personal charge of the situation, which may result in the court-martialing of the entire class.

The trouble arose over the dismissal of the students for Captain Rufus E. Longan, former instructor. This was evidenced by the students in what is known as "salience." That is, the entire student body at once held refused Saturday and Sunday to eat and maintained absolute silence throughout the meal, not communicating even, by whisper with one another.

SAMPLE FUR SALE

ON October 7th and 8th we will have with us a representative of one of the very large Fur Houses of the country who will offer for sale his entire sample line at remarkably advantageous prices.

Fur Fashions for 1910-11 in our store on Oct. 7th and 8th and purchasers may select from the models represented with entire confidence in their correctness of styles and excellence of quality. A few striking novelties are seen and in the best furs there is a general tendency to rich garments of ample size. These are trimmed very plainly or not at all. Furs of this character always appeal strongly to judicious purchasers, not only on account of their excellence and refinement but also because they are such good investment, the large quantity of skins affording plenty of material for remodeling.

Late models in scarfs and mufflers are even larger than last season. This increase in size goes hand in hand with an exacting scrutiny of quality and finish, which adds to the cost of the furs.

On these two days we will also make Special Inducements to purchasers of Ladies and Misses Tailored Suits and Coats.

"PUTTING IT UP TO TAFT."

There is one contingency in connection with the coming elections which does not seem to have received much consideration. It has been held that the senate will remain republican, no matter how sweeping the democratic victory in the lower house. This is probably true; but what of a senate in which the so-called "insurgents" hold the balance of power? Can such a senate be counted upon to check radical legislation?

"If the wave of democratic success which has risen so high in Vermont and Maine does not subside before November, it is probable that the democrats will elect senators to succeed republicans in Indiana, New York, Ohio, Delaware, Maine, New Jersey and Missouri. Democratic senators are likely to take their seats from the new states of Arizona and New Mexico. These changes would make the senate stand, republican, 52; opposition, 44.

"These figures do not allow, however, for possible democratic victories in West Virginia, Nebraska, California, Connecticut or Rhode Island, nor do they allow for any democratic gains from states like Montana, Wyoming, Washington, Nevada, or Utah. The influence which governs political changes sometimes differ in those far western states from the influences which control the commercial states of the East and the Mississippi valley.

"Taking the more conservative figures, however, and conceding a republican majority of eight in the senate, it has to be considered that this majority will be made up in part of senators like Cummins and Deliver of Iowa, La Follette of Wisconsin, Poincaré of Washington, Townsend of Michigan, and others who are avowed opponents of the controlling sentiment of the republican majority. Senator Beveridge will probably not be there, with a democrat in his place; on the other hand the republicans will lack in any event the leadership of Aldrich, Hale, Burrows and Flint.

"It will require but five votes, with the democrats, to convert the republican majority into a minority. Will the democrats not see the best of opportunities for making trouble by saying to the La Follette group in substance, 'Prepare any radical measure you wish and we will help you put it through the senate, if it is not out of accord with democratic principles?'

"Such a combination is not unnatural or unlikely. With its help, there can be put through both houses bills making radical changes in the tariff, imposing new limitations on the railroads, and putting the big corporations under closer surveillance or heavy taxation. Some of them might be passed without reference to their real merits, with the purpose of throwing the responsibility upon the President to decide whether or not they should become law.

"With a measure before him which appealed to popular sentiment in its objects, but was perhaps crude and violent in its details, he would have the choice to veto it or let it become law. Some such measures he would undoubtedly have the courage to veto. Would he do it in all cases? This is one of the questions which the business community will have to answer if the returns in November show a democratic House and heavy democratic gains in the state legislatures.

This summary of the outlook is from the Wall Street Journal. It is based on elections already held and a forecast of states yet to be heard from. That it is reliable will not be questioned. The new alignment in both the House and the Senate is an established fact. The lower House is likely to be democratic and it only remains to be seen whether the insurgency of Cummins or the progressive policies of Roosevelt and Taft, predominate in the senate.

THE RACE PROBLEM.

The fact is slowly being recognized that the race problem must be solved by the people of the South, and many questions of prejudice, as the result of ignorance, are being solved by the closer relations which exist between the North and the South.

The tide of immigration southward is filling the southern states with northern people and the rapid development of that long neglected section is largely due to northern capital and enterprise.

The southern people are frank to admit that the abolition of slavery was the salvation of the South, but they are also convinced that the colored race was better cared for in bondage than it cares for itself as free men and women.

This fact is so self-evident to any one familiar with conditions, that it is not a debatable question. The best friend that the colored race has today is the southerner. He knows these people better than it is possible for the northerner to know them, and he treats them better.

Located at Cheney, Pennsylvania is an organization known as the Committee of Twelve, composed of twelve philanthropists whose mission is "the advancement of the colored race." Hugh M. Brown is the secretary, and anyone interested in what the colored people are doing may gain valuable information by sending him a self-addressed two-cent stamped wrapper for publications which the committee furnish, in pamphlet form.

The latest is entitled, "Some samples of self-help and success among colored people and the co-operation and cordial relations between the races in America." After citing numerous instances of success attained by colored men in various departments of work it emphasizes the cordial relations existing by an incident which occurred last November.

George Washington Walton was a slave of George Walton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He was born at Augusta, Ga., where he died a few months ago, at a ripe old age. He was a barber by trade and enjoyed the distinction of shaving one man for fifty-three consecutive years. In his early life he joined the First Presbyterian church, the most fashionable white church in the city. Everybody respected him for his manhood, and at his death the church was filled with white people, gathered to pay respect to his memory. The following tribute by the pastor shows how little the color line has to do with true manhood.

"It is not my practice to preach a funeral sermon, and I shall not depart from my custom to deliver a funeral oration over the sleeping dust of our beloved brother and our friend. What could I add by word of life to the honor of his long, modest, humble, Christian life as he lived it throughout all his years in this city? That which I might say could not add to it, and God forbid that I should take from it a single degree.

"The older generations of citizens know the man. Through all the trying years of the war and since his life has been an open book, seen and read by all. And it was full of instructions for the young, for it was not in him, nor of him, to put a premium upon idleness in any class of any race.

"In early life he began his labor, and though God blessed and gave to him a competence, he never ceased his work until the setting sun of his life and the shadow of death cut short his faithful laboring. He walked among us, modest, humble, unobtrusive, arrogating to himself no place, no power, no influence that was not rightfully his; that of a man who respects himself and others.

"Through all his intercourse with those of his own color and with those of the white race he bore himself without abuse, and was worthy of the grand old name of gentleman. He was a true citizen, and bore responsibility intelligently and faithfully. In every relation of life, as brother, husband, father and citizen, in spirit and in letter, he endeavored to be true and faithful.

"Out of the fullness of the pastor's heart I speak. For years he identified himself with this church, even before I came to it as pastor, and since his public profession of faith he gave the adversary no opportunity to challenge his adherence to his faith.

"He walked in this world of shadow and sin, and as a light his life shown, his trust and belief in God and influence that may not be gained.

"And so it is meet that white and black should gather in the house of God, before whom there is no distinction, to pay tribute to the devoted father, the humble, true citizen, the faithful child of God. I lay my personal tribute on his dust. He never failed to express his love to me, and he knew that I loved him, and I will say that George Walton was worthy of the love of any man."

Four men were killed, and a score of people injured as the result of the Vanderbilt cup race last Saturday, and yet the footbal sport is continued with increasing popularity. A law should be passed cutting down the speed of automobiles to twenty miles an hour. That is fast enough for either comfort or safety, and would prove a good sedative to the speed mania which possesses the people. Road engines at sixty miles an hour are a menace to the public, and no credit to the manufacturers.

John F. Dietz, of Cameron dam fame, is again in the limelight, and the little town of Winter, where two of the children are in custody, is much excited over the outcome. Dietz has sent word that he is "coming in." Every able-bodied man in the town has been sworn in as a deputy, and business is suspended. Dietz has been a good entertainer for a number of years, and promises to keep it up.

The political atmosphere has cleared so far as President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt are concerned and while the latter is the recognized leader of New York, the President is back of him as a staunch supporter of progressive ideas. The republican party has always been the party of progress, and has a long record of accomplishment as the result of loyal and intelligent work.

The many friends of Senator La Follette will anxiously await the outcome of the operation which he is to undergo tomorrow in the Mayo brothers' hospital at Rochester, Minnesota. He has long suffered from a complication of diseases which only an operation can relieve and the surgeons express confidence that the outcome will be most satisfactory.

The atmosphere is filled with airships at Springfield, Illinois and the service is rapidly developing under the management of Curtis and the Wright Brothers. A fast mail route is among the possibilities in the near future.

Walter Wellman has abandoned his north pole expedition and will attempt to cross the Atlantic this week in his balloon.

More POLITICS

An old man held a place of power, and in his proud exalted hour, when clothed with prestige of a czar, the stars came down from near and far, and bowed in most obsequious style, and fawned and cringed to gain his smile. They fetched and carried his nod, they knelt beneath his chattering rod. And time rolled on, and it was plain that ended was the old man's reign; rude hands reached out and got his crown, and threw his rusty scepter down; he was divorced from great affairs, and hustled down the palace stairs. And those who used to cringe and snail at once got in their dirty work; their worn the thickest, hardest ideas, they throw the large and ugly bricks, exulted in an old man's grief, and turned to ball some new made chief. In any other human game, men will retain a sense of shame, insist on fair and decent play, and chase the eviled sport away; but when in politics they mix, they will not balk at shady tricks, or devious, ungrateful, mean and base, if they will help to win the race.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WESTERN EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Denver Post has been conducting a ballot to find out who is the best dressed man in Denver.

Denver is a little town where, if any, where, men should be distinguished for the brains they use, the things they do, the hearts they carry in their bosoms, rather than for the clothes they wear.

If the ballot were to decide who is the greatest orator, best writer, ablest civil engineer, sanest merchant, most competent architect or the citizen with most civic pride the contest would be worth while. But—

O tempora! O mores!

The town talk was all about the local Freddie Gebhardt and Harry Lehrs, golf and polo habits who affect monogrammed underwear and imported socks.

Has Denver forgotten the guffaw that went the country over when Senator Tabor, "who built the opera house, you know," showed his eighteen dollar nightgown on a Pullman?

His sylbaritic splurge was scarcely a circumstance to be compared with the reported costumes of Denver's Beau Brummels.

Neatness, cleanliness and good taste in dress are not without merit in a man; but, shades of Carlyle, shirts at $100 the half dozen, pajamas at $100 the dozen, silk hose at $14 the dozen, shoes at $26 each and hats at $20 apiece, all imported or specially manufactured, reveal neither good taste nor good sense.

Such expenditures spell extravagance, and extravagance is the crying sin of the day.

Thousands dollar outfits are out of place in a city where worthy men have not where to lay their heads, where women walk the streets from poverty and where little children go supperless to bed.

Happily for us, the vulgar rich of our cities constitute only the scum and not the substance of our social fabric.

Half of our people take for their ideal man Abraham Lincoln and the other half Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson set the pace for democratic simplicity, and until he was elected to congress Lincoln had never worn a suit of underwear.

"You'll Succeed In Janesville."

Hugh Chalmers uses this argument in every speech he makes where there is a booster movement on foot: "I have no use for the man who makes his money in a community and does not spend it there."

We have just passed through the greatest enlightening period in the history of Janesville. Our people have been shown what great factories we have and what their products are. It was a display that was a credit to our manufacturers and retailers; it was worth all that was said about it months ago—that is that it would be worth coming miles to see.

As announced in this paper Saturday night, Janesville has the opportunity of getting a factory to locate here, that will in one year increase our population more than the increase shown since 1900. And this will be increased population that Janesville needs for these new people will be good, clean, hard-working citizens, the very sort that every business man would like to see here.

Now, if the little town of Lake Mills can be instrumental in getting a new industry that means the raising of $50,000, this city can certainly do something towards pushing itself to the front.

The only difference between a rat and a grave is the difference in width and depth—let us all keep this spirit of boosting Janesville alive and say that we live in a valley and not in a rut or grave. This new factory offers a great opportunity to show the stuff that is in this city—let's get it.

DAVIDSON BUYS A STOUGHTON HOME

(Special to the Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—That Gov.
James O. Davidson intends to reside in Stoughton, twenty miles south of here, after his term of office expires
in January, is further indicated by the fact that on Saturday he concluded the purchase of a new residence planned and built by the late
O. H. Davidson, who was a wealthy resident of the "wagon city" and who died shortly before the house was completed. It is easily one of the most modern homes of the city, in the thriving little city of 5,000 people.
The house has ten rooms and is modern in every respect, besides being located in the best residential portion of the city, on a large lot.

Gov. Davidson originally lived in Soldier's Grove, where until he became governor for the third time he retained an interest in a general store.
Early this year he purchased a fine
lot at Lake Koshong, near Stoughton, and built a summer cottage which he and his family occupied during the summer.

HILT AUTOMOBILE RAN INTO BUGGY

On South Jackson Street Saturday Night—H. F. Miller and John Zentis Pitched Into Road.

H. F. Miller, who resides on the Beloit road, and John Zentis, his hired man, were driving slowly southward
on South Jackson street about eleven o'clock Saturday evening when an automobile piloted by Contractor Hilt came from behind and collided with the buggy in which they were riding,
throwing both of them into the street.
Neither was injured and after replacing the wrecked vehicle with a heavy rig, they resumed their way. The place where the collision occurred was particularly dark and the automobile
lamps were throwing out a very feeble light. Contractor Hilt said that he did not see the buggy until it was too late, shouldered the blame, and agreed to make a satisfactory settlement.

BIGGER ON WILD SPREE AND DRIVE

With Team "Borrowed" From Dr. Fred Sutherland, Wrecked Rig and Nearly Lost Life Saturday Night.

While on a spree Saturday evening,
Reuben Higger, who was ordered out of the city by Acting Municipal Judge Lange about ten days ago, untied and borrowed a team of horses owned by Dr. Fred Sutherland, by whom he was formerly employed as hostler, and indulged in a reckless drive which nearly cost him his life. Beyond the Five Points railroad crossing he headed the horses down through the Northwest corner yards but the men who saw and apprehended the situation got the outfit out of there and headed south on Center avenue. At North street Hig-ger turned the mags west and drove over a seven foot embankment of the Northwestern tracks. The vehicle was almost completely derailed but the driver escaped with some miraculous luck. He escaped injury beyond a few cuts and scratches. Higger landed on the mags and a switchblade knife pulled
a diving car would have run him down
had not a switchblade who had witnessed the accident succeeded in flagging the locomotive. Officers Morrissey and Fleming went in search of Higger and the rig but when they reached the scene, Higger had been taken to the depot on the southwestern. He was met there by Officer Brown who conveyed him to the lock-
up. The horses at Chief Appleby's direction were sent to the Sheridan diving barn. In municipal court this morning Higger found himself unable to pay a fine of $10 and costs for drunkenness and went to the county jail twenty days. Dr. Sutherland is as yet undecided as to whether he will prosecute the man for the theft of his team.

Traveling Man Jailed.
Claude J. Miller of South Bend, Ind., a traveling salesman who is alleged to have lured women on the street
while intoxicated, was arrested by Officer John Brown at the C. & N. W.
depot Saturday night and after a hearing in court this morning went to jail
for five days.

John Tull pleaded guilty to a charge
of drunkenness in municipal court this morning and was released after taking the pledge for one year.

JOE FURCH HAD HIS EXAMINATION TODAY

On Charge of Making Murderous Assault on Ed. Miller With Shotgun, Sept. 19.

Before Judge Field in municipal court this morning was commenced
the examination of Joe (Gussie) Furch, the Italian who is alleged to have made a murderous assault upon
Ed. Miller, a wandering machinist, near the new C. & N. W. railroad yards on the afternoon of Sept. 19.
District Attorney J. L. Fisher appeared for the state and the defendant was represented by Carroll
Giblin, a Chicago attorney.

George Reed, an employee at the roundhouse who was an eye witness of the shooting, testified on the stand that at a distance of about 300 feet
he saw Miller throw back his coat in panting; that Furch disappeared and reappeared with a shot gun;
that Miller began to back away still facing the Italian and was about 60 feet away from his victim when he opened fire.

Elmer Schindler, another eye witness, testified to substantially the same thing. He said that Miller dashed up the road and made no motion as if he was going to do so, so far as he was able to observe.

Miller said that he was a machinist
by trade but had been employed at various occupations, working for a farmer at Furco, N. D., shortly before he started from St. Paul for Milwaukee and dropped off at Janeville. He fell in with the five men who were with him the day of the assault, at the roundhouse. The only one he knew was Roy De Moo whom he knew Schindler, while in Milwaukee last week, suborned as a witness and who was not in the court room when called for this morning.

Miller unequivocally denied the allegation that he had stolen tomatoes or other property belonging to the Italian.
When the latter began talking excitedly in a language he could not understand but from which he gathered that he was accused of stealing something, he threw open his coat as a sign that Furch could search him if he was not satisfied that he wasn't a thief. Instead of so doing,
the Italian ran to a car and got a double-barreled shotgun. Miller did not commence to move away until he saw the man brandishing the weapon.
Complainant said that he did not flash any weapon or, indeed, have such a thing upon his person. The charge of shot took effect in one of his eyes, his forehead, lips, and tongue. It had been necessary to remove the injured
eye at the county hospital and he was in danger of losing the use of the other one. His hat, riddled with shot, and the gun were introduced in evidence.

At noon, by reason of the fact that the District Attorney had business
before the circuit court, an adjournment was taken until four o'clock.
Furch will undoubtedly be held for trial.

JOHN NOBLE DIED AFTER OPERATION

Father of Mrs. George Appleby Passed Away at Elgin Hospital at Ten O'clock Last Evening.

Mrs. George M. Appleby, received at half past two o'clock this morning a telephone message conveying sad tidings of the death of her father, John Noble, at Marengo, Ill. Deceased had been afflicted for ten years past with a hernia which had lately become very serious. Physicians declared that in an operation lay the only hope of saving his life. The operation was unsuccessful and he died at the Elgin hospital at 10 o'clock last evening. Mr.
Noble was about seventy-five years of age. He leaves, besides Mrs. Appleby, the following children: Robert Noble
of Milwaukee; William Noble of Union, Ill.; David Noble of Beloit, and Mrs.

COUNCIL TONIGHT DETERMINES LEVY

Which Will Have To Be Made To Meet
The Running Expenses of the City in 1911.

Tonight's session of the common council promises to be a busy one,
besides such matters as the Wisconsin
Telephone Co.'s petition for permission to tear up the streets in the pre-ludes section and lay a conduit for lines and cables, the Cincinnati Communist Co.'s bond, Charles E. Con-roy's complaint against the typists,
reports from the treasurer and board of education for September, and number of other matters which are likely to be up for consideration, the annual tax levy must be made.

The budget last year amounted to $140,219.28 and was raised by levying
a tax of 18 per cent valuation. According to Comptroller Roy Cummings' estimates the amounts required for the various funds for the forthcoming year would be about the same as the last year, with the exception of the judgment fund which was $1,300 the past year and a reduction of about $1,000 in the bonded debt fund. Mr. Cummings will recommend that the following amounts be raised
for the purposes specified:

Bonded Debt	$18,850.00
General fund	$2,900.00
Pure and water	$2,900.00
Lighting	$2,900.00
Judgment	$2,900.00
Municipal Debt	$2,900.00
Total	$25,400.00

In the estimate for the general fund
the $17,500 receipts expected from saloon licenses is taken into consideration;
and in the fire and water estimate
$1,500 from the same source is considered upon.

The bridge fund has a balance of $2,066.54 and the Spring Brook structure, when completed, will cost about $5,000. A similar amount will be needed if a new bridge is to be built over the same stream on the extension of Main street beyond the Hub Brewing
Co. The board of education will ask for $10,000 for the 1911 school fund.
Notions of election to pay a special assessment for the improvement of a block on Washington street have been flooded by a lot of the property owners excepting one and in that instance a bond will be issued.

The Janeville Water Co. has filed notice of the extension of six inch main from the former terminal on Ruger Ave. to North Lincoln street, and north on Ridge street 990 ft., including the installation of three fire
hydrants; thence northerly to the Court street corner; thence southwesterly
with a two inch pipe on Court street.

MADISON COMPANY TO HAVE FULL YEAR

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—It became known today that the United States
sugar company, which for four years
has maintained a $750,000 beet sugar
plant in Fair Oaks, a suburb of Madison, is planning to enlarge its facilities in such a way that it may hereafter be kept busy the year around,
instead of only the winter months, as
now. Equipment costing over $50,000 has just arrived at the factory, to be used in the manufacture of cane
sugar, and fifteen carloads of cane
sugar were shipped here on Saturday.
If the new enterprise proves a success,
the plant will be kept running the year
around, with employment for a larger number and more substantial character of workmen. The company is said to be owned by a syndicate which operates several beet sugar plants in Wisconsin and Michigan. The factory here, so far as equipment is concerned, was brought here from a dismantled factory in Michigan nearly five years ago.

CENTER AVE. CASE IS UP ON TUESDAY

Calendar of the Circuit Court Was Called Today and Dates For Trials Assigned.

The calendar of the Rock county
circuit court for the October term was called before Judge Grimm this afternoon. The first jury case to be tried will be that of the State of Wisconsin against Fred E. Juvrin of Beloit, charged with the murder of John Hays, which will be started next Monday afternoon, October 10, at two o'clock. The Center avenue case will be started before the judge tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. Attorney Nolan this afternoon, in behalf of the Belmont & Interurban company, asked
a further continuance of the case of the proceedings under the statutes
to perfect title. The committee appointed to appraise the damages on the addition of Albert Groll, of South
Franklin street, was to have met today to give its report, but a delay was asked as the interurban company is to submit its petition on South Franklin street as soon as the work on South
Main street is completed. Attorney Pierce for the plaintiff argued against a continuance being granted.

In Unfortunate Position.
"Talking about odd coincidences," said a South American with revolutionary tendencies, "I will tell you of one. I met a friend in Broadway a few days ago. We talked together for a block and then stood and talked a while before separating. Now, it happened that on the very corner where we stood was the establishment of a well-known firm dealing in arms and ammunition, which I had patronized in past years in my efforts to rid my country of its chief executive. And it happened also that there came along the representative of a detective agency which is employed by the consul general of my country to look out for possible revolutionary plots in New York. Ever since then I have been trailed, day and night. And I haven't bought even a firecracker for five years. Always be careful when you stand on the street, for you never can tell what people will think and say."

Finds Publicity Successful.
The Christian church in Sheridan, Ind., tried out newspaper advertising the other day and from the results the members of the board in charge say that the experiment will undoubtedly lead to its further use. The corner-stone of the new church was to be laid and the board advertised the fact with a full page in the local paper together with the announcement that a specially picked chorus would be present on the occasion. The attendance resulting from the publicity exceeded all expectations.

Harrison.
William Henry Harrison had to work as a farmer and clerk of a rural court to make a livelihood. He died just after his presidency began.

THE HEAVENS IN OCTOBER.

By Prof. Eric Doolittle of the University of Pennsylvania.

Time of the Hunters' Moon. Many shooting stars from October 18th to 20th. Suns which glow and fade. How the moon showed the Astronomers a star.

Half of the summer stars have now left the evening sky, and already in the east the bright constellation of the Bull, with the beautiful little groups of the Hyades and the Pleiades, which is the first of the winter groups, has risen well above the ground. High up in the south there is seen the Great Square of Pegasus, while below there shines out the reddish Royal Star, Pomolaut, which has now reached its highest position in the heavens.

The Milky Way, though still passing exactly overhead, has changed its position, so that it now extends from the northeast to the southwest. In two months more it will reach its this star occupies about four hours; it remains at its faintest for about 20 minutes, and by the expiration of three and one-half hours more regains its usual brightness.

THE PLANETS.

Mars, Venus and Mercury are morning stars; the first two are far too near the sun to be satisfactorily observed, but the last may be detected shining out near the ground almost exactly due east about an hour before sunrise, for a few days before and after October 11.

Jupiter, which has been drawing nearer the sun for several months, passes west of that body and becomes a morning star on October 18. It, this was first detected in 1899 on a most delicate photographic plate, which had been exposed in the rare atmosphere of the mountain observatory at Arequipa, Peru. The range of the system even before the new body was found was enormous, the distance from Saturn to the outermost moon then known being more than 2,000,000 miles, but the new moon was seen to be much further away, its distance from the governing planet exceeding 8,000,000 miles.

mid-winter position and lie exactly east and west. In the north, the Great Dipper is seen in an upright position as if resting upon the ground. The entire constellation of the whole is now visible, although its wonderful variable star at E, Fig. 1, which has claimed our attention since its remarkable brightening in August, can no longer be well seen, except with the telescope, but in place of this the observer will have unusually good opportunities this month to witness the remarkable darkening of the star Algol at 11. This so-called Demon Star at the constant interval of 2 days 20 hours 48 minutes has two-sixths of its light cut off by the interposition of a dark body which revolves around it, and several of its eclipses occur this month; during the night, at convenient hours for observation. It will be seen at its faintest of October 5, 6 hours 25 minutes A. M.; October 7, 9 hours 15 minutes P. M.; and October 10, 6 hours 7 minutes P. M. (Eastern time). The falling away of

No other planetary system is nearly so extended as this. Even more striking was the unexpected discovery that while all the known moons revolve about the planet from west to east, as our own moon moves around the earth, the motion of the far distant body was retrograde, that is, from east to west. This fact is very difficult of explanation, although it has been suggested that the planet with its system of inner moons has turned upside down since the outer moon was found.

The tenth moon, called Themis, was discovered in 1901. This lies among the older moons, and its motion is not retrograde. These little bodies are exceedingly minute, and Themis is probably wholly beyond the reach of any existing telescope, the only possible means of observing it being by the photographic plate. It has been computed that Themis is but 28 miles in diameter, and Phoebe but 42. At their enormous distance from us and from the sun they reflect no more light than we would receive from a ball less than one inch in diameter placed 3000 miles away. That such minute objects can be clearly detected and their motions determined with accuracy is a striking evidence of the extraordinary power of modern telescopes, especially where these are supplemented by the resources of photography.

THE HARVEST AND HUNTERS' MOON.

It is a most interesting study to trace out the path which our satellite follows in its monthly circuit of the heavens. Its motion is so rapid that in a small telescope it may actually be seen to be moving, as it draws steadily nearer the stars in front of it, and away from those behind it in its path. When thus viewed for the first time the spectacle of the great round ball ceaselessly and steadily advancing as it rushes along its path at a speed of more than 35 miles a minute is a very impressive one.

time which elapsed between its rising and setting when it was low down in the sky at A.

The full moon of this month, which occurs when the moon is running so rapidly northward in the sky, and when the "moon days" are, therefore, unusually long, is called the Hunters' Moon. At the time of the preceding full moon, on September 19, the amount of moonlight which we received was also unusually great for the same reason, and this is known as the Harvest Moon.

ably too close to the larger one to be detected with any existing telescope. This was suspected because 11 years ago, when the star was observed to emerge from behind the moon, it appeared first as a little bluish, ninth magnitude star, and afterward flashed out in full brightness. When observed last March exactly the same phenomenon was seen again. The moon, as it passed very slowly eastward, uncovered the faint star first; a fraction of a second later the bright one appeared, and by its great brilliancy rendered its small attendant invisible. Thus, for an instant of time, the astronomer was afforded a separate view of the fainter of the pair of stars which, except for the help of our satellite, would not have been possible to him. A careful observation by amateurs of the occultation of stars might lead to the discovery of other similar systems.

Most Stylish and Comfortable Corset Ever Made for Slender Figures.

Nemo No. 330 is not merely an improvement—it's an actual REVOLUTION in corset making.

Such a corset could never have been made before we invented our new "Lastikops Webbing"—and can never be made without it.

It is a beautiful model, with long lines that give a slight form the name of slender grace.

And it's healthful and comfortable, for those two bands of semi-elastic Lastikops Webbing perfectly support the internal organs completely prevent that cramped, bear-

No slender woman who has once been fitted in a Nemo No. 330 will ever willingly wear any other corset.

Fine white cotton, sizes 18 to 26; Lastikops hose supporters—$3.00.

"SLENDER NEMOS"

Stout Women No Longer Monopolize the Nemo Hygienic Service.

Many women still think that all Nemos are for stout figures. No doubt some dealers encourage this erroneous belief, because they like to sell goods that sell easiest—and Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets practically sell themselves, the world over.

The truth is that the "slender" Nemos do just as much for women of slight build as the more famous Self-Reducing Corsets do for their stout sisters—same hygienic excellence, same comfort with perfect style, same unequalled durability.

Your dealer will show you the "slender" Nemos, if you insist.

Nemos the World's Standard (New York Press, Mar. 2, 1910.) This American product—the Nemo Corset—is worn in every part of the world where women wear corsets.

LASTIKOPS BANDLET

Greatest of all Inventions for Figure Reduction and Control.

The semi-elastic Lastikops Bandlets; its position in the corset, and that comfortable supporting curve, which cannot be produced by any other fabric, and which insures the highest degree of fashionable slenderness, is the result of scientific experiments.

The Bandlet gives better support than the best separate abdominal bands you can buy at any price; self-adjusting, can't slip out of place; overcomes all dangers of tight lacing.

Used only in Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets Nos. 522 and 523, at $5.00.

Nemo "Relief Bands"

COMFORT FOR STOUT WOMEN In Self-Reducing Corsets, Nos. 403 and 405, $4.00

Some stout women do not need the extreme support of the Lastikops Bandlet; therefore, thousands are perfectly satisfied with Nemo Relief Bands, which is the next best reducing device.

No. 405, for tall stout figures, has high bust and a long skirt that comes well around to the front and reaches hips and upper limbs. The Relief Bands follow the curve of the lower abdomen, giving firm support from underneath. Fine white cotton, sizes 20 to 36—$4.00.

No. 403 is a similar model, but with lower bust and under arm, for short-waisted stout women—$4.00.

No Substitute for Nemos

The wonderful comfort of Nemo Corsets is due to the Nemo patented inventions—which, of course, cannot be used in any other corsets.

Lastikops Hose Supporters

Every Nemo Corset (except the few $2.00 models) is finished with Lastikops Hose Supporters, guaranteed to outwear any corset.

Used only in Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets Nos. 522 and 523, at $5.00.

WOULD YOU?

Would you go back 50 years to the age of the uneducated, herb doctor?
Or do you prefer to be treated by a modern Graduate Physician of education? You employ a graduate nurse in case of serious sickness. Now, every doctor or nurse must use medicine prepared by some Pharmacist. The doctor is not a druggist; his education is limited to the diagnosis of disease and the prescribing of the proper drugs.
His prescription should be compounded by a Graduate Pharmacist. This prescription is your property. See to it yourself that it is scientifically compounded. Why do you consult a Graduate Physician or employ a Graduate Nurse? For the same reasons you must employ a Graduate Pharmacist.
The medicine is the important link.
You, your nurse, your doctor, all depend upon the medicine to be effective. Do you see the importance of having it compounded exactly right?
And our charges are generally lower.
There's a reason. Badger Drug Co.

New York, Oct. 3.—Hearings of the cholera scare in Europe, two incoming

Antwerp and the Perugia from Naples, were detained at quarantine for inspection.
Two deaths occurred on the Lapland during the voyage. While neither case showed cholera, the vessel was held as a precaution until a bacteriological examination can be made.
The illness of a quarantined
caused the detention of the Perugia.

RECEPTION GIVEN
BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Members of Monroe M. E. Epworth League Entertained For Miss Lounsbury, of Madison.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Oct. 3.—A very enjoyable reception was tendered Miss Allie Lounsbury, of Madison, district officer of the Epworth League, by members of that organization at the Methodist church here. The reception was held in the parlors of the church
and all out-of-town students of the Monroe Business Institute were given a cordial invitation to be present at the affair. Over two-thirds of the school responded and spent a delightful evening in becoming acquainted with the young people of this city. An old-fashioned spelling school created a great deal of merriment. Nice refreshments wound up the festivities.

Bad Runaway.
The horse which the Kunder

west, turning the corner on Emerson
street opposite the Ives Lumber office,
where he was overturned and the horses were thrown on their backs. A quantity of kerosene was lost from one of the tanks. The tongue and wheels of the wagon were broken.

greatly enjoyed.

friends of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Botsford left for Milwaukee, to spend Sunday with his parents there. The bride is the daughter of E. S. Mayer J.
F. Hutchinson and is popular among the younger social set of the city. The

MANY SURPRISES ARE FOUND IN EXHIBITS

Made in Janesville Week Was A Revelation to Citizens Generally—
Much Interest Displayed.

That Made in Janesville week was a revelation to the average citizen is certain. Few knew of all the different articles that were manufactured in their home city and the displays in the different windows opened the eyes of many to the future possibilities of Janesville. Made in Janesville week was a success because all the manufacturers and the merchants cooperated in displaying the goods. The merchants in loading their windows
and the manufacturers in arranging
the displays were picked from the garden of Prof. John Arbuthnot, 1027 Wheeler street, on Saturday last. This is the second crop grown this season.

Saturday evening saw another interesting sight when Thomas McKelgo and Fred Jones sat in the windows of Connell's cigar store and made Grand Duke cigars before a large and interested audience that stood outside.
Fred Jones was a cigar maker thirty-years ago and taught McKelgo his trade some twenty-eight years ago.
Taking it all to all the interest shown in the window exhibits has led to much serious talk relative to the holding of the proposed mid winter fair and some definite action in this regard may be taken within the next week or so.

ELABORATE DINNER
AT HOTEL MYERS

Marked the Formal Opening of the Attractive "New Dining Room"
Last Evening—Nearly 200 Present.

Few of the two hundred guests who gathered at the Hotel Myers to partake of the elaborate Sunday evening dinner, which was to mark the formal opening of the dining room in its brand new dress, were prepared for the complete transformation which all of the old, familiar surroundings have undergone. Paper-hanger and decorator and all the other artisans have accomplished remarkable things in making the seemingly impossible high-ceilinged room look modern, cozy, and attractive. The eye's involuntarily long journey skyward has been restricted in the new-painted walls in the bright watercolor with light blue horizontal in the new rug; and in the intricate and numerous little details which hold together an impression of greatly increased floor area. All of the color tones are light and cheerful and the total effect is more pleasing and inviting than can possibly be imagined by anyone who has not been there.
The Knott and Hatch orchestra played last evening. Hundreds of roses bloomed upon the tables, large and small. The delicious dinner was served in five courses under Mrs. Mc-Kelgo's personal supervision and no
interior has ever been laid upon any local board. The service was faultless and those who came early tarried
long and gave themselves up to a thorough enjoyment of what seemed like a large family reunion. The most careful and courteous attention was given to every guest. Illuminated with a fascimile of the Vancouver scene, were the souvenirs.

COWARDLY ACT OF JANESVILLE
MAN TO AN INSANE PATIENT

Some coward who thought it was smart to deprive a patient of the comfort of three fish on Sunday afternoon doubtless enjoyed the meat beforehand. Meanwhile the victim at the county farm is in a state of much excitement and causing superfluous trouble. It appears that one of the inmates had been fishing near the asylum when three launch loads of Janesville men came up and bargained with him for his catch. He had three fish and asked fifty cents for them. One man,
on the pretext of weighing them,

THIRTY YEARS.
A Slave to Coffee.

Many persons do not realize that coffee-drinking may become a powerful enslaving habit.

They are not all aware that coffee
contains a drug—caffeine—which ought never to be taken into the system except when prescribed by the doctor.

The coffee habit grows on most peers and is more harmful to some than others. But a drug that acts upon the heart and nerves in the way
caffeine does, is not without greater or less harm to all who drink coffee.
"For thirty years," writes a Washington housewife, "I have been a steady coffee drinker. I wanted it at every meal."

"But I would have sick headache
most of the day, and often throw up my food. I really suffered awfully from coffee yet thought I never could stop it."

"Then I heard how good Postum
was for such cases, and began to use
it. At first I did not care for Postum, I felt sleepy and had headache. I soon found that this was because of the hold coffee had on me, for in about three days after I had coffee and began to use Postum the headache left me, and no more nervousness and palpitation. In about a week I felt like a new woman."

"I have used Postum three years
and when it is made according to directions (boiled 15 minutes) it is as pleasant as coffee and don't hurt any-
one. I ought to know for I was bad
off. Now I am well."

snapped the string they were tied to
with a knife, jumped into his boat and steamed away while his poor victim stood on the bank and begged for money or fish. The fish meant a good deal to this unfortunate while to the thief they represented merely a joke.
Today the inmate is almost a nervous wreck and can not be comforted.

SOCIAL SESSION OF
CLUB ON SATURDAY

Many Ladies Present at Annual Meeting of Afternoon Club of Evansville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Oct. 3.—The annual social meeting of the Afternoon Club held Saturday afternoon, was one of the most enjoyable affairs given for several years by that body of ladies.
The first Baptist church was used for the occasion and had been very tastefully decorated with trailing vines
which showed the gorgeous autumn
tints, and a profusion of scarlet salvia.
Before the appointed hour the church
was well filled with ladies from the various clubs of the city and their friends. A piano solo by Miss Hayno and a vocal solo by Miss Fannie Powell were the first numbers on the program. Mrs. Robert M. La Follette was the honored guest and was introduced to the audience by Mrs.
August French, president of the Afternoon club. Her address on "Conservatism" was listened to with the keenest interest. A reception followed and a committee consisting of Messdames H. H. Standish, Irwin
Shaw, Louis Spencer, Wm. Smith and Miss Mima Hubbard presented the ladies to Mrs. La Follette, and at about a pleasant social hour. Mrs. La Follette stated at this meeting that the reports concerning the condition of Senator La Follette's health had been greatly exaggerated and from the latest reports she had received from Rochester she was led to believe that an examination would be all that would be necessary.

Mrs. John C. Connor and two children have been here from Monroe passing
a few days with Evansville friends.
She expects to leave in a short time
for her home in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harden left Friday for Belvidere where they go to attend some time at the home of their son, Cretile Harden.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Pense of Sun-Prairie, have been in the city for a short visit to his sister, Mrs. P. C.
Wilder.

Mr. and Mrs. George Naves were visitors in Brooklyn the latter part of the week.

Mrs. E. J. Lowth has as her guest
Mrs. Jennie Phillips of Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Liston of Or-fordville were over Sunday visitors
at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Sperry.

Miss Ina Sherman will leave tomorrow for Chicago where she will resume her studies at the Art Institute.

A PRETTY WEDDING
ON WEDNESDAY LAST

Miss Kellogg United in Marriage to George R. Howard of La Prairie.

On Wednesday evening last a very pleasant nuptial ceremony occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kellogg in the town of La Prairie
when the marriage of their daughter Miss Gertrude Isabelle to Mr. George
R. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robin
Howard was solemnized. Rev. John Tennant's reading the wedding service. A delicious wedding supper was served to a large company of the close of the ceremony and heartfelt congratulations and best wishes were extended to the couple who also received many handsome presents. At the close of the festivities Mr. and Mrs.
Howard left for their farm home in the town of La Prairie, which had been carefully prepared for them, and where they will be at home to their many friends.

Janesville's music lovers will have

tomorrow in a matinee and evening program at the Myers theatre. Chirillo's accomplishments throughout the east has put his name high on the boards of fame, and much is expected
from him in his first visit to Janesville. Both classical and popular pieces will be rendered by the band
which is composed of thirty-five Italian musicians.

DEFECT IN "GOOD OLD DAYS"

Children of Large Families Were Underfed, Overworked, Beaten and Ill Treated.

We are told by many that the modern woman is becoming forgetful that her chief and highest duty is to rear
children in the fear of the Lord, or that if she recognizes this duty she is rebellious against it. And we are pointed admiringly and regretfully to the good old days when mothers saw their duty to church and state, and meekly performed it in the shape of families of eight, twelve and fifteen.

There are only two defects in this beautiful dream of the days of old.
The first is that neither the fathers
nor the mothers of these huge families had any particular intention, or, indeed, any idea, of sacrificing themselves for the race, or doing their duty by the community; they were simply following their instincts and taking the consequences more or less patiently—and stupidly. The second is that with the exception of the small classes of independent income, these large families, if valued at all, were valued chiefly as a source of income to their parents from the earnings or work of the children during their time of dependence. We do well to denounce the modern sweatshop, or the factory or mine crowded with child workers, but let us remember that a large percentage of the children of these huge families, among the working and farming classes a hundred years ago were more underfed, overworked, beaten and ill treated, stunted physically and deformed mentally than of the children of any civilized community today, even in factory towns.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

She Could, But Wouldn't.

Miss Johnson, an American girl, fair
and twenty-five, was traveling in Germany with an elderly friend. One day in Berlin the two ladies had boarded
a sight-seeing car and were just comfortably seated when an Englishman of a pronounced sporting type got in
and sat down beside the young lady.
After staring at her in silence for some time he inquired, in jestingly:
"Do you speak English, miss?"
"Yes," replied Miss Johnson, with-

Increase in Population.

Fusan and Jinsen are the two principal ports of Korea. Fusan is one of the best ports in the far east, only 30 miles from the northern extremity of Tashima Island, Japan. The town has fine streets and is densely populated.
All over the town commercial activity is in evidence. The population includes 20,000 Japanese, whose administration of the town is rapidly increasing its prosperity. Jinsen, upon to trade since 1902, was then only a small fishing village. It is also prosperous, with a population of 5,500, one-third Japanese.

Warm Floors and Healthy
Children Make Happy Homes

There is no better way for you to avoid worry and expense
than by insuring your children's health.
Warm floors in the home, which is the children's play house in winter, are assured when using Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater.
The steel base and body construction allows the heat to be radiated to the floor keeping it warm during the coldest weather.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The Cleanest—Easiest to Care For

Burns Soft Coal, Lignite, Hard Coal, Crushed Coke,
Wood and Cobs.
Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big care to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, curtain washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the ease of operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast.
Cole's Hot Blast has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door—
open the feed door and the current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of stove to the stove pipe—away from the opening. Contrast this simple, cleanly feed with the side door in an ordinary heater. The side door used on other stoves permits escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant gas and accumulated soot drops from it. If you overfill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. And note this, you cannot make a side door heater air-tight—an everlasting advantage in favor of Cole's Hot Blast which is air-tight and guaranteed to remain so always.
No fires to build—the fire is never out in this remarkable heater from fall until taken down in the spring.
Better select one today—surely it is the heater you need—

SPRING FEVER.

Spring fever is due with the robin. If an Eskimo were to live in Cuba on the same ration that he consumes in Greenland he would melt. The change from arctic to sub-tropical weather often occurs within a few weeks in our northern states, and yet many people, who have been living on a diet, not far removed from that of the Greenlanders, continue to eat practically the same food through April and May—bacon, lard, pork and beans, white bread and butter, and potatoes, three times a day, with little or no fruit or green vegetables, and which are usually mixed with the arctic rations, if eaten at all. No wonder pneumonia is so general in March and April, with spring fever almost universal. In cold weather more heat is needed and much superfluous food is stored as fat. The burning off of this is necessary to avoid acute illness, such as pneumonia. When the thermometer registers 60, make the morning meal of fruits and green vegetables only, for a few weeks, if not for the summer. One who is over weight should adopt such a diet at this time. Prevention is better than cure.

NATURE'S WEATHER PROPHETS

Signs of Flowers and Animals That Were Followed Closely by Our Grandparents.

Men have made some very wonderful instruments which foretell what the weather will be, but old Mother Nature has given us messengers which tell about the weather if we watch the signs which they show. The little daisies were watched by our grandparents, who believed that spring had not come until 12 daisies were blooming on a foot of ground. The chickweeds' starry flowers tell when heavy winds or rains are coming by closing their tiny blossoms. The dandelions have the same habit. Likely the golden flowers do not want to uncover their curly heads unless they can look up to the sun. If you watch dandelions you will see that they do not open on the mornings of the days when rain falls. Marigolds are such particular little blossoms that they will not even show a ray of their splendor if a storm is approaching or thunder is heard in the distance. The morning glories may wake early to beautify the garden, but when they suddenly wrap their silky scarves about their faces you may be sure that rain is in the air. Some trees, such as the locust, close their leaves when a storm is coming. If you have a garden you might look to see what propheta are near to warn you of changes in the weather. Our grandparents said that even powerful old folks knew when to expect their rain or snow. When the cat sat with her back to the fire our grandparents looked to have no use for their overcoats and umbrellas.

"Oh, the idea! He only runs it for me. I put up the money. You know him, eh?"
The girl nodded. "Yes. I know Mr. Clyde also."
"Who—Alton?" he queried with reassuring warmth. "Why, you and I have got mutual friends. Alton and me, is pals." He shook his head solemnly. "Ain't he a scoundrel?"
"I beg your pardon."
"I say, ain't he an awful thing? He ain't anything like Emerson. There's a ring tailed swallow all right, all right! I like him."
"Are you very intimate with him?"
"Am I? I'm closer to him than a porous plaster. When Lloyd ain't around I'm him, that's all. Is that your yacht?"
"No. My father and I are merely passengers."
"So you trailed the old skeezicks along with you? Well, that's right. Make the most of your father while you've got him. If I'd paid more attention to him I'd have been better off now. But I was wild." Fraser winked in a manner to inform his listener that all worldly wisdom was his. "I wanted to be a jockey, and the old party cut me off. What I've got now I made all by myself, but if I'd stayed in Bloomington I might have been president of the bank by this time."
"Bloomington? I understood you to say New Orleans."

"My old man had a whole string of banks," Fraser averred haughtily. "Toll me—is Mr. Emerson ill?" asked the girl.
"Ill enough to lick a den of wild cats."
"He intended coming out to the yacht last night, but he disappointed us."
"It's as busy as an ant hill. I met him turning in just as I came out for my constitutional."
"Where had he been all night?" Her voice betrayed an interest that Fraser was quick to detect. He answered calmly:
"You can search me! I don't keep cases on him. As long as he does his work I don't care where he goes at quitting time." He resolved that this girl should learn nothing from him.
"There seem to be very few white women in this place," she said after a pause.
"Only one, till you people came. Maybe you've crossed her trail?"
"Mr. Emerson told me about her. He seems quite fond of her."
"I've always said they'd make a swell looking pair."

"One can hardly blame her for trying to catch him."
"Oh, you can make book that she didn't start no love-making." She ain't the kind to curl up in a man's ear and whisper. She don't have to. All she needs to do is look natural. The men will fall like ripe persimmons."
"They have been together a great deal, I suppose."

"Every hour of the day, and the days are long," said Fraser cheerfully. "But he ain't crippled. He could have walked away if he'd wanted to. It's a good thing he didn't, though, because she's done more to win this bet for us than we've done ourselves."
"She's unusually pretty," the girl remarked coldly.

"Yes, and she's just as bright as she

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Fourn, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.
The most successful remedy for all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and today is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.
If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

is good looking. But I don't care for blonds." Fraser gazed admiringly at the brown hair before him and rolled his eyes eloquently. "I'm strong for brunettes, I am. It's the creole blood in me."
She gathered up her wild flowers and rose, saying:
"I must be going."
"I'll go with you." He jumped to his feet with alacrity.
"Thank you. I prefer to walk alone."
"Declined with thanks," he murmured. "I'd need ear muffs and mittens to handle her. I think I'll build me some boots and thaw out. She must own the mill."

At the upper cannery Mildred found Alton Clyde with the younger Kerry girl. She called him aside and talked earnestly with him for several minutes.
"All right," he said at length. "I'm glad to get out of, of course. The rest is up to you."
Mildred's lips were white and her voice hard as she cried:
"I am thoroughly sick of it all! I have played the fool long enough!"
"Now, look here," Clyde objected weakly, "you may be mistaken, and it doesn't look like quite the square thing to do." But she silenced him with an angry gesture.

"Leave that to me. I'm through with him."
"All right. Let's hunt up the governor." Together they went to the office in search of Wayne Wayland.
A half hour later when Clyde rejoined Miss Kerry she noticed that he seemed ill at ease, gazing down the bay with a worried, speculative look in his colorless eyes.
Royd Emerson roused from his death-like slumber late in the afternoon, still worn from his long strain and aching in every muscle. He was in wretched plight physically, but his heart was aglow with gladness. Big George was still at the trap, and the unceasing rumble from across the way told him that the fish were still coming in. As he was finishing his breakfast a watchman appeared in the doorway.

"There's a launch at the dock with some people from above," he announced. "I stopped them, according to orders, but they want to see you."
"Show them to the office," Royd rose and went into the other building, where a moment later he was confronted by Wayne Wayland and Willis Marsh. The old man nodded to him shortly. Marsh began:

"We heard about your good fortune. Mr. Wayland has come to look over your plant."
"It is not for sale."
"How many fish are you getting?"
"That is my business." He turned to Mr. Wayland. "I hardly expected to see you here. Haven't you insulted me enough?"
"Just a moment before you order me out, I'm a stockholder in this company, and I am within my rights."
"You a stockholder? How much stock do you own? Where did you get it?"

"I own 25,000 shares outright." Mr. Wayland tossed a packet of certificates upon the table. "And I have options on all the stock you placed in Chicago. I said you would hear from me when the time came."
"So you think the time has come to crush me, eh?" said Emerson. "Well, you've been swindled. Only one-third of the capital stock has been sold, and Alton Clyde holds 25,000 shares of that."
The old man smiled grimly. "I have not been swindled."
"Then Clyde sold out!" exploded Royd.

"Yes. I paid him back the $10,000 he put in, and I took over the 25,000 shares you got Mildred to take."
"Mildred?" Emerson started as if he had been struck. "Are you insane? Mildred doesn't own—Why, Alton never told me who put up that money!"
"Don't tell me you didn't know!" cried Wayne Wayland. "You knew all the time. You worked your friends out and then sent that whipper scrapper to my daughter when you saw you were about to fail. You managed well. You knew she couldn't refuse."
"How did you find out that she held the stock?"
"She told me, of course."

"Don't ask me to believe that. If she hadn't told you before she wouldn't tell you now. All I can say is that she acted of her own free will. I never dreamed she put up that $25,000. What do you intend to do now that you have taken over these holdings?"
"What do you think? I would spend twice the money to save my daughter." The old man was quivering.
"You are only a minority stockholder. The control of this enterprise still rests with me and my friends."
"Your friends?" cried Mr. Wayland. "That's what brings me here—you and your friends! I'll break you and your friends if it takes my fortune."
"I can understand your dislike of me, but my associates have never harmed you."
"Your associates! And who are they? A lawless ruffian, who openly threatened Willis Marsh's murder, and a loose woman from the dance halls?"
"Take care!" cried Emerson in a sharp voice.

The old man waved his hands as if at a loss for words. "Look here! You can't be any other idiot. You must know who she is."

"Do you? Then tell me."
Wayne Wayland turned his back in disgust. "Do you really wish to know?" Marsh's smooth voice questioned.
"I do."
"She is a very common sort," said Willis Marsh. "I am surprised that you never heard of her while you were in the 'upper country.' She followed the mining camps and lived as such women do. She is an expert with cards. She even dealt faro in some of the camps."

"How do you know?"
"I looked up her history in Seattle. She is very—well, notorious."
"People talk like that about nearly every woman in Alaska."
"I didn't come here to argue about that woman's character," broke in Mr. Wayland.
"You have said enough now, so that you will either prove your words or apologize."
"If you want proof, take your own relation with her. It's notorious. Even Mildred has heard of it."
"I can explain to her in a word."
"Perhaps you can also explain that affair with Mildred. If so you had better do it. I suppose you didn't know anything about that either. I suppose you don't know why he advanced that loan after once refusing it. They have a name for men like you who take money from women of her sort."

Emerson uttered a terrible cry, and his face blanched to a gray pallor.
"Do you mean to say—I sent—her—to Mildred?"
"Mildred as good as told me so himself. Do you wonder that I am willing to spend a fortune to protect my girl from a man like you? I'm going to break you. I've got a foothold in this enterprise of yours, and I'll root you out if it takes a million. I'll kick you back into the gutter where you belong."

Royd stood appalled at the violence of this outburst. The man seemed insane. He could not find words to answer him.
"You did not come down here to tell me that," he said at last.

"No. I came here with a message from Mildred. She has told me to dismiss you once and for all."
"I shall take my dismissal from no one but her. I can explain everything."

"I expected you to say that. If you want her own words read this." With shaking fingers he thrust a letter before Emerson's eyes. "Read it!"
The young man opened the envelope and read in a handwriting he knew only too well:

"Dear Royd—The conviction has been growing on me for some time that you and I have made a serious mistake. It is not necessary to go into details. Let us square each other that unpleasantness. I am familiar with all that father will say to you, and his feelings are mine; hence there is no necessity for further explanations. Believe me, this is much the simplest way." MILDRED.

Royd crushed the note in his palm and tossed it away carelessly.
"You dictate well," he said quietly. "But I shall tell her the truth, and she will!"
"Oh, no, you won't. You won't see her again. I have seen to that. Mildred is engaged to Willis Marsh. It's all settled. I warn you to keep away. Her engagement has been announced to all our friends on the yacht."

"I tell you I won't take my dismissal from any one but her. I shall come aboard the Grand Dame tonight."
"Mr. Marsh and I may have something to say to that."
Royd wheeled upon Marsh with a look that made him recoil.

"If you try to cross me I'll strip your back and lash you till you howl like a dog."
Marsh's rigid face went pale. His tongue became suddenly too dry for

Called for Glory Divine.
Among the customers in the drug store conducted by George Eppler, Twelfth and Hicks streets, one day last week, was a little girl, who is known to her playmates in that vicinity as "Peggy." As she stood waiting for her turn, it could be noticed that she was repeating something under her breath. In her effort to remember what her mother had sent her to buy.
"Mother wants five cents' worth of glory divine."
"Of what?" said the young clerk who was standing there as if stunned by a hard blow of a baseball bat.
"Glory divine, glory divine," came the reply in a louder voice than when she had made the original request.
"You had better go home and have your mother write it down on paper, little girl," said the clerk, feeling that the girl was too sure to argue with him.
Soon she returned, and handing the note to the clerk, he read: "Five cents' worth of glory divine of time." Philadelphia Times.
